If you die before annuity payments have begun, your beneficiary will receive an amount equal to the purchase payments paid in one lump sum. If, on the other hand, you die after annuity payments have begun, your beneficiary will continue to receive the same monthly annuity income payment until the total payout is equal to the purchase payments, minus the annuity payments received before death.

You cannot outlive your Flexible Pay Longevity Annuity

On your income start date, you will automatically begin receiving monthly annuity payments. It is an income stream that you cannot outlive. The amount of your annuity payment will depend on the amount of your total purchase payments, your gender, your age, the payment option you have selected and whether you have chosen the death benefit option. The portion of the annuity payment that represents earnings will be taxable.²
